Fostering inter-campus exchanges and networking, students from the Antwerp and Barcelona campuses recently joined a seminar in Fashion Management at our new campus location in Madrid.

The seminar was offered by visiting professor Joe Di Donna from Italy. Mr. Di Donna is active in the field of fashion and business consulting, and teaches Marketing and Fashion Management related courses at schools such as the Instituto Europeo de Design (IED) and the European School of Economics (ESE), in Milan, Paris, Shanghai and other locations around the world.

"This was an amazing experience" says Mitra Kazemian, MBA student from Canada (Barcelona campus). "We had the chance to meet up with students from the Antwerp campus and at the same time visit yet another wonderful city in Spain. I love Madrid!"

Coralie Dalcq, MBA student from Belgium (Antwerp campus), agrees, "Originally I was planning to apply for a Master in Fashion Management at the University of Antwerp but instead went to the Antwerp International Business School for my graduate studies. [the school] did a wonderful job in organizing this seminar for us as I now also have Fashion Management as part of my MBA program! Thank you!"

Full-time International Bachelor/BBA and Master/MBA Degree Programs are scheduled to start at the Madrid campus in October 2009. A complete Master in Fashion Management will be offered from October 2009 onwards at the Antwerp and Barcelona campuses.

Barcelona students attend conference with Belgian former Prime Minister Mr. Guy Verhofstadt

Students from Barcelona Business School recently attended a conference with the Belgian former Prime Minister Mr. Guy Verhofstadt.

Organized partly in English and partly in French, the conference handled such topics as the current worldwide financial and economic situation, a further integration of the European Union, and other contemporary issues such as energy, terrorism and society in general. With good reason, the conference was named "A New Age for Empires".

"It was one of the most interesting conferences I have attended so far. Being from Germany myself and having little background knowledge on Belgian politicians and governments, Mr. Verhofstadt certainly seems like a very knowledgeable and interesting man. The topics he covered were profound and definitely reflective of our modern 21st century society. Making jokes every once in a while makes it even more enjoyable to listen to him", says Katrin Schöppler from Germany, currently an undergraduate student in the Business Studies program.

The invitation to attend came from the local Belgian Consulate, headed by Honorable Consul Mrs. Karina Tuytschaever, in cooperation with the Belgian-Luxembourg Chamber of Commerce in Catalonia.

Students and staff from Barcelona Business School wish to thank the Consul and the members of the Consulate and Chamber for extending this invitation and for organizing this first-class conference!

2009 Graduation Ceremony to be organized at the Barcelona World Trade Center

The faculty and staff of the United International Business Schools organization cordially invite all students from the Antwerp, Barcelona, Brussels and Valencia campuses, their family and their friends to attend the 2009 Commencement Ceremony in Barcelona on Tuesday, June 30, 2009 at 7pm at the Barcelona World Trade Center. Following the ceremony, a reception will be organized to honor our graduates.

International University of Southern Europe

The International University of Southern Europe (IUSE) is currently located in three of the most exiting cities in the region: Barcelona, Madrid and Valencia. IUSE offers flexible business, management, language and cultural studies in a truly international environment.

The private international university links the Barcelona, Madrid and Valencia business schools and organizes studies at the Associate/ABA, Bachelor/BBA and Master/MBA level. Several specializations are offered at each level. Language courses are organized for the university's undergraduate and graduate students and are also open to locals and foreigners wishing to improve their language skills.

Fostering inter-campus exchanges and global networking, students are equipped with the necessary skills and knowledge to become true entrepreneurs. Students greatly benefit from the dynamic and enriching international and cross-cultural environment found at the university.

IUSE's Madrid campus is scheduled to start its operations in October 2009, offering the same programs that are running at its Barcelona, Valencia and other sister campus locations across Europe.

Centrally located on the Iberian Peninsula, Madrid is the largest city in Spain and is ranked 7th in the 2008 European Cities Monitor survey, locating Europe's leading companies and published by global real estate consultant Cushman & Wakefield. Brussels and Barcelona, two of the other sister campus locations are ranked 4th and 5th respectively in that same survey.
